Her research and teaching interests include international norm dynamics, international negotiations, legalization and compliance beyond the nation-state, European Integration, Comparative European Union Politics, as well as modern theories of international relations. Scotland, however, has already experienced and on balance profited from it for forty years see Table 2.

Heidelberg:Physica-Verlag.Security,PrivacyandOversight. The following articles are merged in Scholar. Journal of the Chemical Society, Perkin Transactions 1, It is the first major work to investigate the activities of all small EU members, including the states of the latest accession rounds. SmallstatesintheEuropeanInstitutions.It does an excellent job in offering comprehensive insights into small state behaviour and an understanding of their degree of success and deserves a wide readership.
